Roosevelts Are Feted At Farewell

French Ambassador Alphonse Juin entertained yesterday at a luncheon at the embassy in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Roosevelt, Jr., who will leave shortly for Spain.

Ambassador Juin offered a toast to the departing couple, and Mr. Roosevelt answered with a short speech and toast.

Among those attending were Georges Auric, the famous composer of modern French music who is here in connection with a $2 million lawsuit regarding the composition of the score of "Moulin Rouge."

He also wrote the music to "Roman Holiday," "Heaven Knows Mr. Allison," and Brigitte Bardot's new movie, "Moonlight Jewelers."

Mr. Jean-Loup Tournier of New York, who is representing Mr. Auric in the case, was also there.

Also present were the Spanish Ambassador Areilza, Spanish Second Secretary and Senora de Pedrosa, who leave today for a visit in New York with the former Colombian Ambassador and Senor de Urrutia; Mr. Pierre Billecocq, who is here with the French financial mission of Jean Monnet; Mrs. John G. Elton, members of the French Embassy staff and others.
